

We sell the tally, not the footage.

Tally is New Zealand's outcome-guaranteed marketing agency for primary industries. One business outcome is agreed before production. Fee risk is written into the contract.

01 How the guarantee works

- Agree one number: qualified applications, qualified reach, or qualified enquiries.
- We deliver headless: one update a week against target. No production theatre.
- Miss? We keep working at our cost, or the fee comes back. Printed, not implied.

02 The miss clause

- Miss by "d20%: free 30-day extension. We absorb delivery cost.
- Miss by >20%: 50% fee credited to the next engagement, or partial refund within 14 days.
- Client-attributable (late assets, broken operation, tracking not live): guarantee voided, named in the contract.

03 Who carries what

- We absorb delivery risk. You absorb operational risk.
- Paid media spend stays in your account, transparent to the dollar.
- We never guarantee sales. We guarantee what we control.

04 What voids the guarantee

- Late assets past week two: clock does not start; delay days excluded.
 - Structural product or workplace issues found in discovery: we stop before taking the fee.
 - Scope creep after week-one freeze: clock resets.
